Grown and Evangelizing (Part 7)

2. Boldness is a result of watching and partnering with other bold witnesses.

Proverbs says, "He who walks with the wise becomes wise, but the friend of sinners will suffer harm" (Proverbs 13:20). One of the wisest things we can do with our life is witness for Christ.

This boldness is increased by being around wise Christians who are serious about God and serious about the gospel. Our relationships always affect our witness for Christ. They can affect it positively by helping us become bolder or negatively by silencing us.

Paul said this in Philippians while he was in prison. He called the people to follow his example which no doubt included his faithfulness in sharing the gospel even while being persecuted. Look at what he said: "Join with others in following my example, brothers, and take note of those who live according to the pattern we gave you" (Philippians 3:17).

We should all have people we are watching and/or who are mentoring us to help us grow in the faith and to help us share the faith. This includes studying faithful witnesses like Paul in Scripture and also the faithful throughout the history of the church. I have read the stories of many contemporary pastors who were deeply impressed and encouraged by the witness of Hudson Taylor, Jim Elliot, Martin Luther, and other great saints.

Prayer Request

Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. James 5:16

“COVID-19 symptoms and the Omicron variant: What the latest studies show” (Pt.1)

Submitted by: Beatrice Ramsey

Doctors studying Omicron's spread around the world have found new clues to the pattern of symptoms caused by the highly-mutated COVID-19 variant, which a growing number of reports suggest might show up differently and faster compared to the Delta variant it is now displacing.

Early evidence suggests that in many patients, Omicron is leading to a new trend of milder symptoms that mostly affect the upper respiratory system — the nose, mouth and throat. That may help explain why it appears to pose a smaller individual risk of hospitalization or severe disease than earlier strains of the virus, which often invaded the lungs.

"What is becoming clearer ... is that Omicron seems to have lesser impact on lungs than prior variants," said Dr. Ronald Whelan, head of Discovery Health's COVID-19 task team.

Whelan's employer, South Africa's largest health insurer, released an early report last month on the Omicron wave there. Their analysis found that a sore throat ranked among the most common early Omicron symptoms, as well as congestion, a dry cough and lower back pain.
