"In Search of Wisdom" (Part 10)

From the Minister's Desk

The Pain of Ignoring Wisdom

Gary Richmond, a former zookeeper, tells about an experience a friend had with a raccoon. He explains that raccoons go through a glandular change at about 24 months. After that they often attack their owners. Since a 30-pound raccoon can be equal to a 100-pound dog in a scrap, Richmond felt compelled to warn his young friend of his named Julie of the change coming to her pet raccoon. She listened politely as he explained the coming danger. She responded by saying what people always say, "It will be different for me." She smiled and added, "Bandit wouldn't hurt me. He just wouldn't." Three months later, Julie underwent plastic surgery for facial lacerations sustained when Bandit attacked her for no apparent reason. Bandit was released into the wild.

God is not often interested in shortcuts, but there is a God-given shortcut to wisdom. Solomon assures us: "He who walks with the wise grows wise" (Proverbs 13:20a). We are given the opportunity to learn wisdom from others who are further down the road than we are. We don't have to live and learn; we can learn and live. James Emery White says, "I am shocked at how many people attempt to make life-changing decisions, try to determine God's will for their lives, or seek to follow their life purposes, and never bring other people into the process!"

“Omicron Symptoms and Treatment: What to Know”

Submitted by: Beatrice Ramsey

8. Some newer treatments can help, but come with caveats

Johnson added that the AstraZeneca monoclonal antibody treatment (a combination of tixagevimab with cilgavimab) does appear to retain effectiveness against omicron when taken as a pre-exposure preventative measure in immunocompromised patients.

There are also three antiviral drugs available for COVID-19 (all currently in short supply):

- Paxlovid (two medicines of nirmatrelvir/ritonavir)
- Molnupiravir
- Remdesivir

Paxlovid in particular, Campbell noted, has the ability to work around omicron’s mutations. “By interfering with virus replication, we get the same benefits (with Paxlovid) as with the monoclonal antibodies – reduced risk of hospitalization and death,” he said.

However, Paxlovid does have a number of other drug interactions. Campbell says that providers are needing to look carefully at a patient’s list of medicines they are taking to avoid any serious interactions.

Data has also shown that short, three-day courses of Remdesivir in an outpatient setting reduces hospitalization and death from COVID-19.
