"Reasons to Fall in Love with Him" (Part 6)

3. God's Love Is Unconditional

One of the most amazing things about God's love is that it is extended to us when we do not deserve it and continues steadfast and strong even when we do not respond to it. In other words, His love is unconditional. That certainly is different from our love. We have a tendency to show more love to the people who obviously love us and less love to the ones who do not. We express our love to our spouses and our children when they perform to our expectations and we withhold it from them when they displease us. We shower affection on the lovable children and avoid the belligerent little rascals who look as if they might want to kick us in the shins. I find it easy to express my love to my wife when she tells me what a wonderful husband I am, but not quite so easy when she scolds me for not taking out the trash. I find it easier to be loving toward my children when they are obeying me willingly, but not quite so easy when they are resisting me.

God is not like that. The best-loved verse in the Bible says, "For God so loved the world," that is, the whole world. That does not refer to the materials out of which our planet is constructed, but to the world of people. It does not mean the whole mass of humanity generally; it refers to each individual sinful person. The Bible categorizes all of them as God's enemies, people who have willfully set themselves against Him (Romans 5:10; Colossians 1:21). God even loves His enemies—all of them.

Prayer Request

Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. James 5:16

“COVID-19: Aerosols Versus Respiratory Droplets Explained”

Submitted by: Beatrice Ramsey

Note that airborne transmission “refers to the presence of microbes within droplet nuclei, which are generally considered to be particles [less than 5 micrometers] in diameter, can remain in the air for long periods of time and be transmitted to others over distances greater than 1 m.” In an earlier brief, WHO noted that the organization, “together with the scientific community,” had been actively discussing and evaluating whether SARS-CoV-2 may also spread through aerosols in the absence of aerosol-generating procedures, particularly in indoor settings with poor ventilation.” Aerosol-generating procedures are ones that generate more aerosols than are traditionally released through things like talking.

The difference in the way aerosol and respiratory droplets spread necessitates different prevention strategies. Shelly Miller, a professor of mechanical engineering at the University of Colorado Boulder, highlights the importance of airflow. “The main difference is that to air ventilation rate in addition to all other protocols (wearing a mask and social distancing and going outside and reducing time indoors).” Miller tells Yahoo Life.

She urges individuals to also be cognizant of other factors: “not spending too much time in a space where you share the air with many others that may be asymptomatic and infected, wearing a mask indoors, observing whether there are windows open.
