Grown and Evangelizing (Part 5)

Submitted by: Eric W. Doss

Paul was under house arrest—guarded by a soldier all day. While there, people came to see him all the time. Obviously, having an apostle of Paul's stature in Rome became very well known. People from all throughout the Empire started to come to Paul, and he would share the gospel and preach to them.

The palace guards chained to Paul would switch every four hours. "Palace guard" in the Greek is actually the word "praetorian." The praetorian were high ranking military officers—hand selected to protect the emperor and keep the general peace. They received double the pay of a regular soldier with a generous retirement. There were anywhere from 9,000 to 16,000 praetorian. These soldiers were well known and became very powerful in the government. They became known as "king makers," as they would in later years use their power to select emperors.² There has been renewed interest in these well-known soldiers with the release of the movie Gladiator (2000) and 300 (2007). As these high-ranking soldiers were chained next to Paul, they listened to his testimony, heard his prayers, and consequently the gospel started to spread among them and throughout Caesar's palace (Philippians 4:22).

Paul's situation was not ideal. He didn't have freedom—he couldn't go and visit the city.

Prayer Request

Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. James 5:16

“6 Places You’re Most Likely to Catch Coronavirus” (Pt.3)

2. Gyms and fitness centers

While both fitness centers followed protocols such as limiting class sizes and screening for symptoms of COVID-19, neither required members to wear masks while exercising. Masks have been shown to limit the spread of COVID-19, even among those who don’t seem sick.

If you decide to exercise indoors, choose your gym wisely. The CDC recommends using a facility that opens doors and windows for ventilation, installs barriers between equipment for social distancing, and requires its staff and guests to wear masks. “These practices show we care about our own health but also the health of those around us,” Dr. Lushniak says. “This is the right thing to do and is part of the weaponry to battle the pandemic.”

Many gyms are considering requiring proof of vaccination and masks for all members in light of the highly transmissible Delta variant, Dr. Horowitz says. “This will make gyms safer.”

3. Transportation

Traveling—especially on cruises and airplanes—can increase your risk of getting and spreading COVID-19, according to the CDC. Recently, there were 27 cases of COVID-19 on a Carnival cruise ship that sailed from Galveston, Texas, to Belize, and the CDC recommendations for “cruisers,” suggesting that those who are at increased risk for severe illness from COVID-19 avoid cruise ships regardless of vaccination
