Symptoms Awareness: 2025

Submitted by: Beatrice Ramsey

Symptoms awareness for 2025, will keep everyone mentally knowledgeable when to notify their doctor. Some symptoms are related to most illnesses. Example: Pain is usually the first symptom to let you know something is wrong and need medical treatment. Remember – all health problems don't require severe healthcare treatments, example – headaches without visual or balance problems. Your doctor will decide which treatment is required. Heart disease will severely interfere with blood circulating carrying oxygen and nutrients to all body parts. Just think, if there is a blockage in this system, the body's normal functioning ability will be off balance and illness will take place. The lungs are responsible for normal breathing of oxygen and correct exhaling of carbon dioxide. A break in this system will cause a series of health problems. Our brain function on a highly skilled regulated mental performance. The brain is the control center for the entire body. A blockage in this system will cause chaotic confusion and mentally cannot be corrected.

There are other systems in the body with symptoms that require mild to severe medical care. There are certain symptoms that sends a red flag, to let you know something is wrong, whether it is mild or severe, it requires immediate attention. Difficult breathing, dizziness, nausea, vomiting, numbness, swelling with discoloration, low / rapid heartbeats, fever, and chest pains- notify your doctor.
